Dear Recruiter of Ubuntu Company,

I am reaching out to express my interest in joining your cybersecurity team, as recently advertised. With three years of experience in the field, encompassing diverse and challenging projects, I am eager to apply my knowledge and skills to make a significant contribution to your organization.

My professional journey in cybersecurity began with a comprehensive focus on areas such as SOC and AppSec. During this time, I not only conveyed secure development concepts to clients but also implemented practical solutions to address vulnerabilities. My experience includes pentesting activities, with a notable project for TIM, where I identified and remedied medium to high-impact vulnerabilities.

A noteworthy achievement was leading a security audit at my university, uncovering vulnerabilities in the internal network that allowed for remote command execution and Active Directory (AD) infiltration. To underscore the seriousness of these vulnerabilities, I developed a "white-hat" ransomware that spread motivational messages, providing a detailed report to aid in fixing the flaws.

Furthermore, I actively contribute to the dissemination of cybersecurity knowledge by conducting courses and delivering presentations. I possess expertise in reverse engineering and malware analysis, demonstrated in projects involving the identification and correction of critical vulnerabilities in the network.

I would also like to highlight my ability to apply ethical knowledge in my free time by developing cheats for games, using my reverse engineering skills to modify game functionalities. This experience showcases my technical prowess and creativity, qualities that I believe are valuable in tackling complex challenges in cybersecurity.

I am eager to discuss how my experience and skills align with the specific needs of your team. Thank you for this opportunity, and I look forward to the chance to contribute to the continued success of your organization.

Sincerely,

Johnathan Frabetti
